*Dear Old Duke, thy name we'll sing,
 To thee our voices raise, we'll raise,

Jerry Seinfeld

AWARD-WINNING COMEDIAN,
ACTOR, PRODUCER AND AUTHOR

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER
HONORARY DOCTOR OF ARTS

Faculty Sponsor: Neal Bell, Mary D.B.T. and James H. Semans Professor of the Practice of Theater Studies

Jerry Seinfeld is in his fifth decade as a stand-up comedian, actor, producer, and author, highlighted by his nine-year run playing a fictionalized version of himself in the eponymous sitcom he co-created with Larry David for NBC — Seinfeld.

At various points between 1989 and 1998, Seinfeld was the most-watched show in America, and it is cited as one of the best and most influential television sitcoms ever produced.

An estimated 76.3 million viewers watched the final episode of Seinfeld, the fourth largest audience for an American series finale. The sitcom that is often characterized as “a show about nothing” continues to air through syndication. The show won three Golden Globe Awards and 10 Primetime Emmy Awards, and Seinfeld was honored with the 1994 Golden Globe for Best Performance by an Actor in a TV Series Musical or Comedy.

In 2013, the Writers Guild of America rated Seinfeld as the second best-written series in television history. Variety ranked the show eighth best of all time, regardless of genre, and noted the series was a “catchphrase generating machine.”

Seinfeld graduated from Queens College, City University of New York in 1976, receiving a degree in communications and theater, and established himself as a stand-up comedian specializing in observational comedy. He frequently appeared on popular late night talk shows and hosted a one-hour special that aired on HBO in 1987.

Following Seinfeld's conclusion, he resumed stand-up comedy, including touring, while continuing to act and produce. In 2011, Seinfeld launched an 11-season run of the popular web series, Comedians in Cars Getting Coffee. The show was nominated for five Primetime Emmy Awards and was a five-time winner of Producers Guild of America Awards, including for Outstanding Digital Series and Outstanding Short-Form Program.

In addition to his entertainment career, Seinfeld has written multiple books and also made his directorial debut with the film Unfrosted, recently released on Netflix.

Seinfeld and his wife, Jessica, are the parents of a Duke alumna and members of the undergraduate classes of 2025 and 2028, and together serve as national chairs of Duke's Parents Committee. They also founded Good+Foundation, a charitable organization focused on addressing family poverty.

Claudius Claiborne E'69

PROFESSOR OF BUSINESS AND MARKETING
AT TEXAS SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY

HONORARY DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS

Faculty Sponsor: Mark Anthony Neal, James B. Duke Distinguished Professor of African and African American Studies

Duke University's first Black student-athlete, Claudius B. "C.B." Claiborne, later used his experiences on the basketball court and in the classroom to help inform his life's work as a distinguished scholar and teacher of teamwork and leadership.

Following his graduation from John Langston High School in Danville, Va., Claiborne enrolled at Duke on a presidential scholarship in 1965, two years after the university enrolled its first Black undergraduate students. Claiborne would make history when he donned the Blue Devils jersey for the freshman basketball team.

As an undergraduate, Claiborne joined Duke's Black Student Alliance and participated in the pivotal 1969 Allen Building sit-in.

Following his 1969 graduation from Duke with a degree in mechanical engineering, Claiborne declined an offer to join the Harlem Globetrotters, instead pursuing a career as an engineer, consultant, and product developer. Among his projects was helping create the adjustable steering wheel for Ford Motor Company.

Claiborne has published widely and has received multiple honors and recognitions for his teaching and research, including being named an Apple Distinguished Educator, Fulbright Scholar, Sasakawa Fellow and Coors Eminent Scholar. He is currently Professor of Business and Marketing in the Jesse H. Jones School of Business at Texas Southern University.

Claiborne has returned several times to Duke, including to participate in a panel discussion sponsored by the faculty-led initiative "Black in Blue: The Duke Sports & Race Project." The Duke Men's Basketball team wore Claiborne's name and number 23 during pregame warmups for their February 2023 game versus Louisville, and Claiborne was honored on the court during halftime of that game.

A Bass Connections project team at Duke is producing a feature-length documentary examining the history of men's basketball and race on campus through the lens of Claiborne's story.

In addition to his degree from Duke, Claiborne earned masters degrees from Dartmouth College and Washington University in St. Louis and also received a Ph.D. in marketing from Virginia Tech.

Rhiannon Giddens

AWARD-WINNING SINGER AND INSTRUMENTALIST

HONORARY DOCTOR OF ARTS

Faculty Sponsor: Sophia M. Enriquez, Andrew W. Mellon Assistant Professor of Music and Latinx Studies

Greensboro native and critically acclaimed artist Rhiannon Giddens has given voice to a powerful musical history and culture that is now bursting into greater public consciousness.

With a passion for raising awareness of the origins of American music, the singer, songwriter, and instrumentalist was an original member of the Carolina Chocolate Drops, an innovative Black string band founded in Durham in 2005.

With the Carolina Chocolate Drops, Giddens studied with legendary string band musician Joe Thompson, and in 2010 won the Grammy Award for Best Traditional Folk Album for Genuine Negro Jig. The group played blues, jug-band numbers, and other Americana styles, influencing many Black musicians to take up the fiddle, banjo and other traditional instruments.

Giddens' first solo album, Tomorrow Is My Turn, and her follow-up Freedom Highway each were named Album of the Year by the International Folk Music Awards. In 2017, Giddens received a MacArthur Foundation Fellowship grant, bestowed on individuals who "show exceptional creativity in their work."

She received a second Grammy when her release They're Calling Me Home was honored for Best Folk Album in 2022. A year later, Giddens won a Pulitzer Prize in music after co-writing the opera "Omar," based on the autobiography of Omar ibn Said, a 19th-century West African Muslim scholar enslaved and brought to North Carolina.

Most recently, Giddens can be heard playing the banjo and viola on Beyoncé's song "Texas Hold 'Em," the first single by a Black woman to top Billboard's Country Music Song chart. Her latest album, You're the One, was nominated this year for the Grammy Award for Best Americana Album.

In addition to her musical career, Giddens has published two children's books, hosts the PBS television series My Music with Rhiannon Giddens, and was a recurring actress on the TV show Nashville. She also returned to Duke last year for a conversation with music professor Anthony Kelly about her work and career.

Giddens is a 1995 alumna of the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics in Durham and studied opera as a 2000 graduate of Oberlin Conservatory of Oberlin College.

Rose Marcario

BOARD MEMBER, IMPACT INVESTOR AND FORMER CEO OF PATAGONIA, INC.

HONORARY DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS

Faculty Sponsor: David B. Brown, Professor of the Fuqua School of Business

As CEO and Board Member of Patagonia, Inc., Rose Marcario showed that profits can be congruent with strong environmental practices and activism, and demonstrated how business leaders can take effective stands on social issues.

Marcario joined Patagonia in 2008 as chief financial officer and chief operating officer, and five years later was promoted to CEO. Under her leadership, the company's profits quadrupled, and annual sales surpassed one billion dollars. Simultaneously, Patagonia became a corporate leader in responsible business practices and workplace and environmental innovation.

During Marcario's tenure as CEO, Patagonia launched a digital platform connecting customers with environmental causes, created a regenerative organic food company and industry-wide certification, and established a venture fund focused on sustainable product developments and supply chain transformation. As CEO, Marcario also used her voice to influence society and governments to advocate for a healthy planet, democracy, and working families.

In 2016, Marcario participated in a public interview at Duke's Fuqua School of Business and detailed how Patagonia was making a deliberate effort to address climate change through the development of sustainable business practices.

"We're not living in a world anymore where you can just keep making new stuff and using it up," Marcario said. "I think the companies that get ahead of that and start creating those [sustainable] supply chains and creating that infrastructure will be ahead of the curve."

Two of Marcario's other priorities as CEO were access to workplace childcare and increasing voter turnout. During her leadership of Patagonia, 100 percent of new mothers returned to work from parental leave, allowing many to rise in company leadership.

Marcario is also the founder of Time to Vote, an initiative to permit time off for employees to vote. As part of the initiative, Patagonia shut down all US-based operations for Election Day in 2016. By 2020, more than 1,500 businesses had joined the coalition.

In 2020, Marcario stepped down as CEO of Patagonia. She was widely heralded during her tenure, including being listed among "100 People Transforming Business" by Business Insider and being named CEO of the Year in 2017 by Ethical Business Awards.

Desmond Meade

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF THE FLORIDA
RIGHTS RESTORATION COALITION

HONORARY DOCTOR OF LAWS

Faculty Sponsor: James E. Coleman, Jr., John S. Bradway Distinguished Professor of the Practice of Law

In October 2020, at age 53, Desmond Meade cast his first-ever ballot in a presidential election.

That vote came after a remarkable victory for both Meade and tens of thousands of other formerly incarcerated people in Florida whose past felony convictions had barred them from voting under state law.

While homeless and squatting in a home in 2001, Meade was arrested and subsequently convicted of possession of a firearm. Originally sentenced to 15 years in prison, Meade studied law books during his incarceration and won an appeal of his conviction that resulted in his release after three years of time served.

Following his release, Meade began to turn his life around while living in a homeless shelter. He graduated summa cum laude from Miami Dade Community College before earning his J.D. at Florida International University College of Law. While in community college, Meade joined the grassroots organization Florida Rights Restored Coalition (FRRC), and in 2009 became the group's executive director.

The FRRC successfully campaigned in 2018 to pass a state constitutional amendment to restore voting rights to returning citizens with a felony conviction. In the largest expansion of voting rights in America in 50 years, about 1.4 million Floridians became eligible to vote.

After state leaders enacted financial obstacles that threatened to prolong disenfranchisement for 700,000 people, Meade helped lead a fundraising campaign to pay off court debts for those affected and encouraged civic engagement by other returning citizens. FRCC estimated its efforts allowed more than 100,000 people with past felony convictions to vote in the 2020 election.

Meade's work led to his recognition by TIME Magazine as one of the 100 Most Influential People in the World in 2019. He also has been named a Ford Global Fellow by the Ford Foundation and a MacArthur Foundation Fellow. Under Meade's leadership, FRCC was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize in 2023.

"I believe that everybody deserves a second chance at redemption, and democracy is stronger when it fully represents everyone," Meade said in a 2021 MacArthur Foundation video.

The Traditions of Commencement

Notes on Academic Dress

Academic dress originated in the Middle Ages. When the European universities were taking form in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, scholars were also clerics, and they adopted robes similar to those of their monastic orders. Caps were a necessity in drafty buildings, and copes or capes with hoods attached were needed for warmth. As the control of universities gradually passed from the church, academic costume began to take on brighter hues and to employ varied patterns in cut and color of gown and type of headdress.

The use of academic costume in the United States has been continuous since Colonial times, but a clear protocol did not emerge until an intercollegiate commission in 1893 recommended a uniform code. In this country, the design of a gown varies with the degree held. The bachelor's gown is relatively simple with long pointed sleeves as its distinguishing mark. The gown for the master's degree has an oblong sleeve with the rear part cut square and the front part with a cutaway arc. The most elaborate academic costume is the doctoral gown with velvet panels down the front and three bars of the same material across the sleeves. The velvet is usually black, but it may be a color designating the field of study to which the degree pertains. The gown itself, usually black like those of the lower degrees, may be of a color distinctive of a particular university.

The hood bears a still larger symbolic burden: the width of its velvet trimming designates the level of the degree; the color heralds the major field of study; and the lining identifies the institution that granted the degree. Duke University is symbolized by a lining of Duke blue with a white chevron.

The cap, originally round, is usually a square mortarboard and is the same for all degrees. The standard tassel for the cap is black, but the cap worn with the doctoral robe may have a gold tassel. The Duke doctoral gown is in the authentic Duke blue. The Duke University shield, embroidered in blue on white, is applied to each front panel. With this gown there may be worn a black velvet, four-pointed, soft tam with a square top and a gold metallic bullion tassel.

Significance of Colors

Colors indicating fields of study and colors identifying some of the universities represented by members of the faculties of the University are:

 Arts, Letters, Humanities WHITE	 Education LIGHT BLUE	 Medicine GREEN	 Public Health SALMON
 Business Administration DRAB	 Engineering ORANGE	 Music PINK	 Science GOLDEN YELLOW
 Dentistry LAVENDER	 Fine Arts BROWN	 Nursing APRICOT
 Divinity, Theology SCARLET	 Forestry RUSSET	 Philosophy DARK BLUE

Mace and Chain of Office

At commencement, ceremonial use is made of two important insignia given to Duke University in memory of Benjamin N. Duke. Both the mace and chain of office are the gifts of anonymous donors and of the Mary Duke Biddle Foundation. They were designed and executed by Professor Kurt J. Matzdorf of New Paltz, New York, and were dedicated and first used at the inaugural ceremonies of President Terry Sanford in 1970.

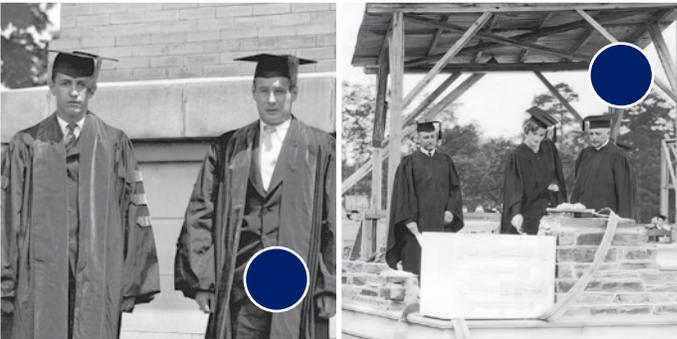

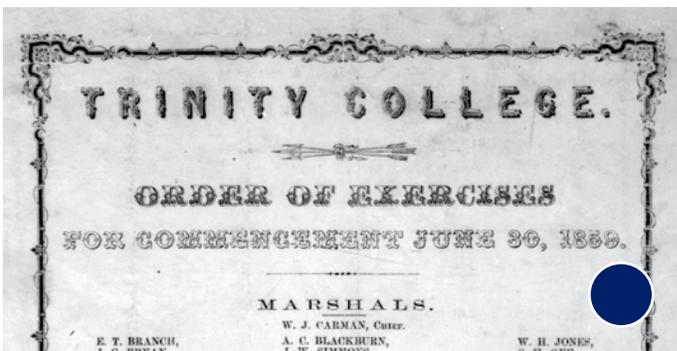

The Mace, the symbol of authority of the University, is made of sterling silver throughout. It is thirty-seven inches long and weighs about eight pounds. At the lower end of the hammered shaft is a gilt (gold-plated) pinecone. The upper end of the shaft displays the inscription Universitas Dukiana 1838. This inscription is surmounted by a short, hammered neck followed by the head which has eight flutings alternating with eight gilt ribs. Above the head of the mace, a band carries the motto of Duke University: Eruditio et Religio. The upper end of the mace is a crown of gilt laurel leaves which carries the seal of Duke University surrounded by the three symbols of the Trinity to indicate that Duke University emerged from Trinity College.

The Chain of Office of the President of Duke University is four feet long and is also made of sterling silver throughout. The main part consists of nine silver pinecones alternating with ten gilt clusters of three laurel leaves each. In the front hangs the gilt medallion with the official seal of Duke University surrounded by a laurel wreath into which are set the three symbols of the Trinity. In the back is the gilt coat of arms of the Duke family with the motto In Adversis Idem set in a sterling wreath of laurel leaves and bearing the inscription Duke.
