Concluding Remarks

Alma Mater

Members of Duke Chorale

The audience stands for the Alma Mater

*Dear Old Duke, thy name we'll sing.
To thee our voices raise (we'll raise),
To thee our anthems ring,
in everlasting praise.*

*And though on life's broad-sea,
Our fates may far us bear.
We'll ever turn to thee,
Our Alma Mater dear.*

— R. H. James '24

Closing Processional

The audience remains standing until the platform party and faculty leave the football field.

The Duke University Wind Symphony

The Duke University Wind Symphony (DUWS), directed by Verena Mösenbichler-Bryant, is a dynamic ensemble composed of Duke students, primarily non-majors, who are passionate about exploring and performing the finest wind and percussion repertoire. The group offers students the opportunity to challenge themselves musically while fostering a sense of community through shared artistic expression. Open to all Duke students by audition, the Wind Symphony creates an inclusive environment where musicians can come together to produce memorable and impactful performances. Today's Commencement Wind Symphony is augmented by local musicians, friends, and alumni.

Grant Hill T'94

BUSINESS LEADER AND BASKETBALL
HALL OF FAME INDUCTEE

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Grant Hill is a 2018 Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame inductee who graduated with a double major in history and political science from Duke University in 1994. His No. 33 jersey has been retired by the Blue Devils.

Hill was a three-time All-American for Duke who won the ACC Player of the Year award as a senior and was honored as the National Defensive Player of the Year as a junior. Playing for Hall of Fame Coach Mike Krzyzewski, Hill was a Freshman All-American in 1991 when he helped the Blue Devils win the first men's basketball national title in school history.

A year later, Duke repeated as champions. Hill's nearly court-length pass to Christian Laettner assisted Laettner's game-winning, buzzer-beating basket to defeat Kentucky in the 1992 NCAA Tournament regional finals, clinching the Blue Devils' berth in the Final Four.

Selected by the Detroit Pistons with the third overall pick in the 1994 NBA Draft, Hill played 18 seasons professionally and was a seven-time All-Star.

Shortly after Hill entered the NBA, he established Hill Ventures, a private company through which he has invested in a diverse portfolio of real estate projects. Since retiring from the NBA, Hill made the successful transition from professional athlete to franchise co-owner, corporate board member, business and sports leader, and television broadcaster, including being part of the lead announcing team for the NCAA Tournament. In 2021, he was named managing director of USA Basketball.

Hill has served on the Duke Board of Trustees since 2021. In addition, he serves or has served on the boards of the NCAA, NBA Retired Players Association, Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, Campbell Soup Company, Empire State Realty Trust, and Lake Highland Preparatory School.

Hill is an avid supporter and collector of African American Art and sponsored a nearly three-year, seven-city tour of his personal art collection. In 2022, he wrote a critically acclaimed memoir, Game: An Autobiography.

Hill lives in Orlando with his wife, Tamia, a six-time Grammy-nominated singer, and their two daughters. The family's Tamia & Grant Hill Foundation supports numerous philanthropic causes, with a focus on those working on behalf of children and education.

Rebecca Hatcher Buckley, M.D.

W.C.'54

PHYSICIAN SCIENTIST

HONORARY DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

Faculty Sponsor: Georgia D. Tomaras, A. Geller Distinguished Professor for Research in Immunology

Throughout her six decades at Duke University, Rebecca Hatcher Buckley, M.D., established herself as one of the preeminent pediatric caregivers in the country.

Buckley, a native of Hamlet, N.C., completed her undergraduate studies at Duke, graduating with an A.B. in 1954. After earning her medical degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill four years later, Buckley returned to Duke to complete her house staff training in pediatrics and her fellowship in allergy and immunology.

In 1974, Buckley was named chief of the Division of Allergy and Immunology, and five years later she was named the James Buren Sidbury Distinguished Professor of Pediatrics and Professor of Immunology. She retired in 2022 after 64 years of service at Duke.

During her career, Buckley pioneered breakthrough research with a particular focus on the syndrome of severe combined immunodeficiency (SCID), also known as "bubble boy disease," and the successful long-term clinical and immunologic outcomes of nonablative T cell-depleted haploidentical parental bone marrow transplants, which can be provided to all SCID infants regardless of whether they have a matched sibling donor or not. Her advocacy also led to SCID being added to the Recommended Universal Screening Panel for newborns in all 50 states.

The survival rate for babies born with SCID that is diagnosed and treated before three months of age is now greater than 90 percent.

Buckley authored or co-authored 388 scientific publications and trained more than 80 post-doctoral fellows. She served on more than 30 national committees and councils, including as president of The American Academy of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology (AAAAI), where she was the first woman to lead the organization; president of the American Pediatric Society; and director of the American Board of Allergy and Immunology.

In 2003, Buckley was elected to the National Academy of Medicine, and nine years later she was inducted into the National Academy of Sciences. The American Pediatric Society bestowed its highest honor, the John Howland Award, on Buckley in 2014.

David Robinson II L'64

ATTORNEY

HONORARY DOCTOR OF LAWS

Faculty Sponsor: H. Timothy Lovelace Jr., John Hope Franklin Research Scholar, Professor of Law and History

With fellow law classmate Walter T. Johnson Jr., and divinity student R.L. Speaks, David Robinson II was one of the first Black students to enroll at Duke University.

Months before their arrival in the fall of 1961, the university's Board of Trustees voted to desegregate Duke's graduate and professional schools. Two years later, the undergraduate program was also integrated.

Robinson grew up in "Overtown," a segregated African American community in Miami. After graduating Phi Beta Kappa and Magna Cum Laude in 1961 from Howard University, he was persuaded by School of Law Dean Elvin "Jack" Latty to make history at Duke. Robinson would later say that he was not "seeking integration" and that his "entire family was opposed to it," but Robinson found Latty to be "a most persuasive, fatherly figure."

While at Duke Law, Robinson served as a law clerk to the United States Civil Rights Commission in Washington, D.C., for two summers. After graduating in 1964, Robinson was the first African American attorney selected to join the Legal Division at the Federal Reserve, where he worked for three years before accepting a position at Xerox in Rochester, N.Y., becoming the first Black attorney in the corporation's Office of the General Counsel.

In 1968, Robinson discovered that Xerox's national claims of adhering to fair employment practices were untrue. In response, he organized and served as executive director of the Concerned Association of Rochester, Inc., a nonprofit dedicated to the elimination of discrimination at Xerox.

Robinson became senior counsel for Xerox operations on the West Coast in 1978. After he retired from Xerox in 1988, fellow Duke Law alumnus Gerald Wetherington ('63), then the chief judge of the Eleventh Judicial Court of Florida, asked Robinson to join his judicial circuit. Robinson would become the first to serve as the circuit's general counsel, holding the position for a decade.

He remains active in community engagement in his hometown of Miami, particularly at his alma mater Booker T. Washington High School, where Robinson helps raise money for college scholarships, faculty support, and academic programs.

Feng Zhang

MOLECULAR BIOLOGIST

HONORARY DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

Faculty Sponsor: Charles A. Gersbach, John W. Strohbehn Distinguished Professor of Biomedical Engineering

Considered to be one of the world's most inventive life scientists, Feng Zhang, PhD, is a molecular biologist who is focused on developing and applying novel molecular technologies for studying and improving human health.

Dr. Zhang's studies explore biological diversity with the goals of understanding nature and discovering systems and processes within nature that may be harnessed through bioengineering.

Zhang has played an integral role in the development of two revolutionary molecular technologies: optogenetics, which allows researchers to control neurons with light to learn more about how the brain works; and CRISPR-Cas9-based gene editing, through which researchers can make precise changes to the DNA of living cells.

He and his team have adapted multiple other CRISPR systems for use as genome and transcriptome engineering tools, in addition to developing a number of applications of CRISPR systems. In 2023, the first CRISPR-based therapeutic, Casgevy, which is based on work done by Zhang and his collaborators, was approved for the treatment of sickle-cell disease.

In addition to therapeutic use, Zhang's lab's tools are also being used broadly to accelerate basic research and are being deployed in other biotechnological applications. Zhang's long-term goal is to develop novel therapeutic strategies for complex diseases without a single underlying genetic change. Tackling brain diseases, specifically, has been a goal since college, when Zhang witnessed friends suffering from severe mental illness.

Born in China, Zhang emigrated to the United States in 1993 at the age of 11. He received his undergraduate degree in chemistry and physics from Harvard College and his PhD in chemistry from Stanford University.

Zhang is a core member of the Broad Institute, an Investigator at the McGovern Institute for Brain Research, the James and Patricia Poitras Professor of Neuroscience at MIT, and a Howard Hughes Medical Investigator. He is also a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the National Academy of Medicine, and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, as well as a fellow of the National Academy of Inventors.

Student and Faculty Representatives

Danica Bajaj

CANDIDATE FOR THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF ARTS

Danica Bajaj is a Robertson Scholar dedicated to advancing well-being across Duke University and the Durham community. She has led opioid crisis intervention in North Carolina, which included attending Narcotics Anonymous meetings, conducting research, and securing a $250,000 grant to implement a Mobile Syringe Service Program. On campus, she organized Duke's first large-scale social event on Central Campus, created The Gratitude Equation—a house course on the science and practice of gratitude—and championed wellness initiatives through orientation programs. She is graduating with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Computer Science, with distinction, following the successful presentation of her honors thesis The Human Cost of Artificial Empathy.

Lucas Vaughan

CANDIDATE FOR THE DEGREE OF MASTER OF INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT POLICY

Lucas Vaughan is a U.S. Army soldier with 13 years of service, commissioning as a Cyber Officer focused on electronic warfare. He is graduating from Duke with a Master of International Development Policy degree with a certificate in Middle East Studies. His research examined food security in Egypt at the intersection of agriculture and national security. Initially an Infantryman, he deployed to Kosovo and later served in Special Operations Civil Affairs in Lebanon and Jordan—experiences that led him to Duke's Army ROTC. Raised on horseback, he grew up rodeoing and working cattle. A proud dad and husband, he hopes to return one day to ranch life in the rural Mountain West.

Trina Jones

CHAIR OF THE ACADEMIC COUNCIL AND UNIVERSITY FACULTY MARSHAL

Trina Jones is the Jerome M. Culp Distinguished Professor of Law at Duke Law School, where she directs the Center on Law, Race, and Policy. Her research focuses on racial, socio-economic, and gender inequality in the workplace. Jones has served multiple terms on Duke's Academic Council. She was elected to its Executive Committee in 2015 for a two-year term and elected as Chair in spring 2023 for a two-year term. In 2014-15, she co-chaired the Academic Council's University-wide Task Force on Diversity. She received her B.A. from Cornell University and her J.D. from the University of Michigan Law School.

The Traditions of Commencement

Notes on Academic Dress

Academic dress originated in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, scholars were also clerics, and they adopted robes similar to those of their monastic orders. Caps were a necessity in drafty buildings, and capes or capes with hoods attached were needed for warmth. As the control of universities gradually passed from the church, academic costumes began to take on brighter hues and to employ varied patterns in cut and color of gown and type of headdress.

The use of academic costume in the United States has been continuous since Colonial times, but a clear protocol did not emerge until an intercollegiate commission in 1893 recommended a uniform code. In this country, the design of a gown varies with the degree held. The bachelor's gown is relatively simple with long pointed sleeves as its distinguishing mark. The gown for the master's degree has an oblong sleeve with the rear part cut square and the front part with a cutaway arc. The most elaborate academic costume is the doctoral gown with velvet panels down the front and three bars of the same material across the sleeves. The velvet is usually black, but it may be a color designating the field of study to which the degree pertains. The gown itself, usually black like those of the lower degrees, may be of a color distinctive of a particular university.

The hood bears a still larger symbolic burden: the width of its velvet trimming designates the level of the degree; the color heralds the major field of study; and the lining identifies the institution that granted the degree. Duke University is symbolized by a lining of Duke blue with a white chevron.

The cap, originally round, is usually a square mortarboard and is the same for all degrees. The standard tassel for the cap is black, but the cap worn with the doctoral robe may have a gold tassel. The Duke doctoral gown is in the authentic Duke blue. The Duke University shield, embroidered in blue on white, is applied to each front panel. With this gown, there may be worn a black velvet, four-pointed, soft tam with a square top and a gold metallic bullion tassel.

Mace and Chain of Office

At commencement, ceremonial use is made of two important insignia given to Duke University in memory of Benjamin N. Duke. Both the Mace and Chain of Office are the gifts of anonymous donors and of the Mary Duke Biddle Foundation. They were designed and executed by Professor Kurt J. Matzdorf of New Paltz, New York, and were dedicated and first used at the inaugural ceremonies of President Terry Sanford in 1970.

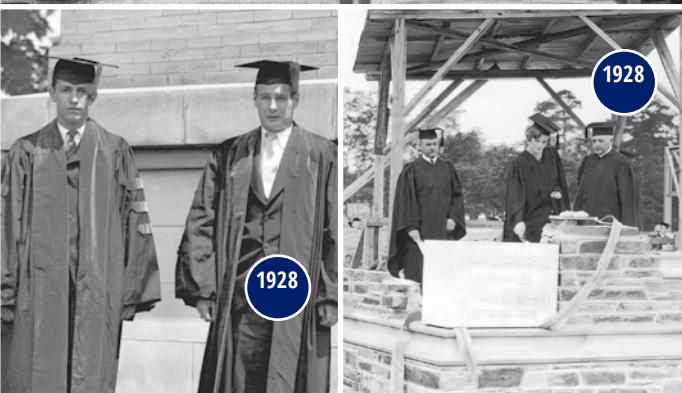

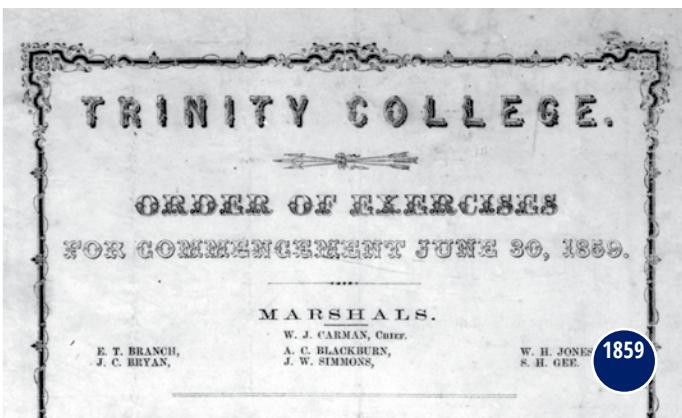

The Mace, the symbol of authority of the University, is made of sterling silver throughout. It is thirty-seven inches long and weighs about eight pounds. At the lower end of the hammered shaft is a gilt (gold-plated) pinecone. The upper end of the shaft displays the inscription "Universitas Dukiana 1838". This inscription is surmounted by a short, hammered neck followed by the head which has eight flutings alternating with eight gilt ribs. Above the head of the mace, a band carries the motto of Duke University: Eruditio et Religio. The upper end of the mace is a crown of gilt laurel leaves which carries the seal of Duke University surrounded by the three symbols of the Trinity to indicate that Duke University emerged from Trinity College.

The Chain of Office of the President of Duke University is four feet long and is also made of sterling silver throughout. The main part consists of nine silver pinecones alternating with ten gilt clusters of three laurel leaves each. In the front hangs the gilt medallion with the official seal of Duke University surrounded by a laurel wreath into which are set the three symbols of the Trinity. In the back is the gilt coat of arms of the Duke family with the motto, In Adversis Idem set in a sterling wreath of laurel leaves and bearing the inscription "Duke".
